I. INTRODUCTION

After this Court granted preliminary approval the settlement agreement reached by Plaintiff Michael Monaco and Defendant D.A. Davidson Companies (“D.A. Davidson”), the parties worked in conjunction with Settlement Administrator Kurtzman Carson Consultants (“KCC”), whereby providing Court-approved notice to 1,480 class members. To date there have been seven total opt-out requests and no objections.

The parties now seek final approval of their settlement agreement. Under the parties’ agreement, D.A. Davidson will establish a $145,000 non-reversionary settlement fund (“Settlement Fund”) to resolve Plaintiff’s class claims that D.A. Davidson violated federal and state laws regarding background checks, including the Fair Credit Reporting Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq.; the California Consumer Reporting Agencies Act (“CCRAA”), California Civil Code § 1785.1 et seq.; California Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act (“ICRAA”), California Civil Code § 1786 et seq. as well as California unfair practices law under California Business and Professions Code § 17200 et seq.<sup>1</sup> Settlement Class Members need not take any further action to receive a check; rather, payment from the Settlement Fund will be automatic and without the need of a claims process. Any uncashed or returned checks from distribution will go to a cy pres designee, namely, United Way of Montana. In exchange for these benefits, Settlement Class Members will release their FCRA and California state law claims related to the allegedly offending Authorization forms.

 Case No. 5:16-CV-00332-SJO-DTB

3 The parties' settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate. Plaintiff diligently
4 prosecuted his claims for several months on behalf of the class, during which time
5 his counsel investigated his claims and D.A. Davidson's defenses. As part of the 6 investigation, Plaintiff's counsel, among other things, culled through various 7 background check forms that D.A. Davidson used to conduct background checks
8 for over 1,483 applicants and/or employees. Plaintiff's counsel also analyzed the 9 case law on the FCRA, including whether D.A. Davidson "willfully failed to 10 comply" with the FCRA's requirements. See 15 U.S.C. § 1681n(a). In order to 11 evaluate the uncertainties of Plaintiff's case, Plaintiff's counsel reviewed the United 12 States Supreme Court's highly anticipated ruling in Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins, 136 S.
13 Ct. 1540 (2016).

14 After weighing the strengths, weaknesses, and uncertainties of his case,
15 Plaintiff engaged in arms'-length negotiations with D.A. Davidson, reaching a 16 reasonable and fair agreement following negotiations during and after a mediation
17 before Martin Quinn. Now, in light of only a tiny fraction of the class members'
18 decisions to be excluded from the settlement, the parties request that the Court grant 19 their Motion for Final Approval of Class Action Settlement and also retain its 20 jurisdiction to enforce the Settlement. By separate motion, Plaintiff seeks approval
21 of his Class Award and his reasonable attorneys' fees.

22 II. FACTS AND PROCEDURE

23 A. Overview of the Litigation

24 In September 2015, Plaintiff Michael Monaco, a resident of Colton, 25 California at the time, applied for an IT Application Specialist position with D.A.
26 Davidson at the company's Seattle, Washington location. As part of his application
27

3 process, Mr. Monaco was provided with D.A. Davidson's "Authorization for 4 Employer Access to Consumer Reports" ("Authorization") so that the company
5 could run a background check on him. The Authorization Mr. Monaco signed 6 contains four subheadings: "Disclosure," "Authorization," "Release," and 7 "Acknowledgment of Receipt of Summary of Rights." (Dkt. 29, ¶ 6, Exhibit A.)

8 In his Complaint, Plaintiff alleged that D.A. Davidson's form violated the 9 FCRA and other state laws. (Dkt. 1.) FCRA established that there are certain 10 disclosure requirements for credit reports to be used for employment purposes, such 11 as that the disclosure must be in writing, "clear and conspicuous," and "consist[] 12 solely of the disclosure." 15 U.S.C. § 1681(b)(2)(A). Plaintiff alleged that D.A.
13 Davidson's disclosure was legally defective in that it is not in a stand-alone
14 document and included a waiver of his rights, which would constitute extraneous
15 information, and therefore is unlawful under FCRA.

16 Plaintiff also alleged violations of California's Credit Reporting Agencies
17 Act ("CCRAA"). The CCRAA requires a notice informing the person that a report
18 will be used, the notice must identify specific provisions of the California Labor
19 Code, inform the person of the source of the report, and offer a checkbox in order
20 to offer a copy of the report to the potential employee. See Cal. Civ. Code §
21 1785.20.5(a). Plaintiff alleged that the Authorization provided him by D.A.
22 Davidson omitted the Labor Code reference and the specific provisions, the source
23 of the report, and the checkbox, and that these deficiencies violated the CCRAA.

24 Plaintiff additionally alleged violations of the Investigative Consumer
25 Reporting Agencies Act ("ICRAA"). Like the CCRAA, the ICRAA requires 26 certain information to be included in a disclosure, such as the identifying 27 information for the reporting agency, a summary of the provisions from California

3 Civil Code Section 1786.22, and website of the agency. The Authorization that 4 D.A. Davidson had Plaintiff sign did not include the name, address, and telephone
5 number of the investigative consumer reporting agency, did not provide a summary
6 of the provisions from California Civil Code Section 1786.22, and did not list the 7 Internet website address for the consumer reporting agency. Plaintiff alleged that 8 these omissions constituted violations of California Civil Code Sections
9 1786.16(a)(2)(B)(iv)-(vi).

10 Plaintiff also alleged that Defendant violated the California Business and 11 Professions Code § 17200 et seq. by engaging in unlawful and unfair business acts 12 and practices.

13 Finally, Plaintiff alleged on an individual, rather than class-wide, basis that 14 Defendant violated the Washington Fair Credit Reporting Act, Wash. Rev. Code. §
15 19.182.020(c), when it procured Plaintiff's consumer report although a credit report
16 was not "substantially job related" to the IT position for which he applied.

17 B. Plaintiff's Investigation and Discovery

18 Prior to filing of this action, Plaintiff thoroughly investigated his claims.
19 Plaintiff also has conducted investigation and discovery after filing the action in 20 order to prove up his claims and rebut D.A. Davidson's defenses. As part of the 21 investigation, Plaintiff's counsel reviewed documents produced by D.A. Davidson.
22 (Dkt. 29, ¶ 4). Because this case largely turns on D.A. Davidson's legal defense that 23 Settlement Class Members suffered no "actual injury" and that D.A. Davidson's
24 noncompliance was purportedly not "willful" under the FCRA, Plaintiff's counsel
25 reviewed and analyzed case law governing FCRA and analogous state law class
26 actions, as well as articles and commentaries. This analysis and investigation
27

3 allowed Plaintiff's counsel to structure a settlement that provides benefits directly
4 to the persons who were forced to sign allegedly defective forms.

5 C. The Parties' Arms'-Length Settlement Negotiations

6 The proposed Settlement was reached after the parties engaged in a thorough
7 analysis of the pertinent facts and law at issue. On July 29, 2016, the parties
8 attended mediation in San Francisco conducted by the Martin Quinn of JAMS.
9 (Dkt. 29, ¶ 5.)

10 At the mediation, with the assistance of Mr. Quinn, the parties were able to 11 reach an agreement on all material terms of the proposed Settlement. The parties
12 final Joint Stipulation of Class Action Settlement ("Settlement Agreement") was 13 submitted with their Motion for the Preliminary Approval. (Dkt. 29, ¶ 7, Ex. B.)
14

15 D. The Proposed Class Action Settlement

16 1. The Settlement Class

17 The Settlement Class consists of all persons who, between February 24, 2013
18 to July 29, 2016, executed the Authorization and do not opt-out of the settlement.
19 (Settlement Agreement ¶ 19.)

20 2. Settlement Benefits

21 Under the Settlement, D.A. Davidson agrees to pay $145,000 into a non-22 reversionary settlement fund ("Settlement Fund") from which all payments will be 23 drawn. (Settlement ¶ 34.) All Settlement Class Members who do not submit valid 24 and timely Requests for Exclusion will receive a settlement payment, in the form of 25 a check, without having to submit a claim. (Id. ¶ 28.) Each Settlement Class
26 Member will receive a pro rata share from the Net Settlement Fund (the Settlement 27

3 Fund less costs for settlement administration, attorneys' fees and costs, and 4 incentive payments). (Id. ¶ 39 – 41.) Any remaining amount left after from the Net
5 Settlement Fund, including the amount of any uncashed settlement checks, will go
6 to the cy pres designee, United Way of Montana. (Id. ¶ 45.)

7 3. Release of Claims

8 In exchange for benefits provided by the Settlement, Settlement Class
9 Members who have not timely and properly opted out of the settlement will release 10 claims limited to those arising out of or relating to the improper disclosures alleged 11 or asserted in Plaintiff's Complaint. Settlement Class Members will fully release
12 and discharge D.A. Davidson and the Released Parties from any and all claims, 13 debts, penalties, liabilities, demands, obligations, guarantees, costs, expenses,
14 attorneys' fees, damages, actions, or causes of action of whatever kind or nature, 15 whether known or unknown, that were alleged or that reasonably arise out of the 16 facts alleged in the Lawsuit during the Class period, including those claims related 17 to alleged or potential violations of the FCRA, CCRRA, and ICRAA. (Settlement ¶ 18 48-49.) Settlement Class Members also will expressly acknowledge and agree that 19 they have settled all claims against the Released Parties by and through this 20 Settlement and that they shall not seek any new, different, further, or additional 21 compensation directly or indirectly from D.A. Davidson for any alleged failure by 22 D.A. Davidson to comply with any federal, state, or local law, regulation, or 23 ordinance regarding any matters alleged in the Lawsuit. (Id.) This release is 24 appropriately tailored to the allegations asserted by Plaintiff in his Complaint.

25 All Settlement Class Members who do not opt out will receive a check
26 without needing to submit a claim form. (Settlement ¶ 28.)

4. Attorneys' Fees, Litigation Expenses, and Service Awards

Plaintiff seeks via a separate Motion an order from the Court for Class Counsel to be awarded their reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in this Action in an amount not to exceed one-third of the Gross Settlement Fund, and for a reimbursement of out-of-pocket costs. Plaintiff also seeks, via that same Motion, an Order from the Court granting an award of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) to Plaintiff Michael Monaco as consideration for his service as a Named Plaintiff and as consideration for the general release he is giving D.A. Davidson. (Settlement ¶ 46-47.)

E. The Parties' Compliance With the Court's Preliminary Approval Order

As authorized by the Court's Order Granting Plaintiff's Motion for Preliminary Approval of Class Action Settlement (Dkt. 35), the Parties engaged the services of a Settlement Administrator, KCC, to (1) print and mail out the Court-approved Notice to the class members; (2) re-mail the Notice on any that were returned as undeliverable; (3) perform a NCOA check and a skip-trace for returned mail; (4); provide a Declaration of Due Diligence; (5) collect, review, and report to the Parties' counsel opt-out and exclusion requests; and (6) answer questions of class members. (Declaration of Beth Verdekal on Behalf of Claims Administrator Re Notice Procedure ("Verdekal Decl."), ¶¶6-11.)

Pursuant to the preliminary approval order, KCC was provided with the Court-approved Class Notice form, which summarized the key terms of the Settlement Agreement, provided information about the Settlement Amount, and advised class members how to object to, or opt out from, the Settlement (Verdekal Decl., ¶8, Ex. A.) On November 3, 2016, KCC mailed the Notice to the Class Members, and for those with no forwarding address, KCC performed a NCOA check and skip-traced the returned mail within five business days. (Id. at ¶¶8-9.) By the December 18, 2016 opt-out deadline, only seven Class Members (less than 0.5%) had opted out and no Class Members had objected to the Settlement.<sup>2</sup> (Id. at ¶10.)

III. ARGUMENT

A. The Court Should Grant Final Approval of the Class Settlement

1. The Final Approval Standard Has Been Met

A class action settlement must be approved by the court, and notice of the settlement must be provided to the class before the action can be dismissed. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(1)(A). The Court approves a class in three steps: (1) preliminary approval of the proposed settlement, and if the class has not already been certified, conditional certification of the class for settlement purposes; (2) notice to the class providing class members an opportunity to object to, or exclude themselves from, the settlement; and (3) a final fairness hearing concerning the fairness, adequacy, and reasonableness of the settlement. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2); Manual for Complex Litigation § 21.632 (4th ed. 2004).

The first two steps have been accomplished; the Court granted preliminary approval of the class action settlement on October 13, 2016 (Dkt. 35) and the Class Members have been notified of Settlement and the upcoming fairness hearing. (See Verdekal Decl.) A court will approve a class action settlement at the fairness hearing stage after allowing Class Members the opportunity to be heard at that hearing, and after determining that the settlement is “fair, adequate, and reasonable.” See Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1026 (9th Cir. 1998).

<sup>2</sup> Class Members have until January 15, 2017 to object (Verdekal Decl., ¶11), but this motion required filing prior to that date. Therefore, prior to the hearing on January 30, the parties will file with the Court updated numbers, if any.

3 A court's determination as to whether to approve the proposed settlement is left to 4 the sound discretion of the trial judge, and will not be overturned without a finding 5 of clear abuse of discretion. Id. at 1026-27. Proper deference must be given to the 6 private, agreed-upon decision of the parties. Id. at 1027.

7 The Ninth Circuit additionally has set forth a list of nonexclusive factors for a 8 district court to consider when granting final approval, which are "[1] the strength 9 of plaintiffs' case; [2] the risk, expense, complexity, and likely duration of further 10 litigation; [3] the risk of maintaining class action status throughout the trial; [4] the 11 amount offered in settlement; [5] the extent of discovery completed, and the stage
12 of the proceedings; [6] the experience and views of counsel; [7] the presence of a 13 governmental participant; and [8] the reaction of the class members to the proposed 14 settlement." Rodriguez v. W. Publ'g Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 963 (9th Cir. 2009)
15 (citing Molski v. Gleich, 318 F.3d 937, 953 (9th Cir. 2003), overruled on other 16 grounds by Dukes v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 603 F.3d 571, 617 (9th Cir. 2010)).

17 As discussed below, when weighing these factors, the parties' Settlement is 18 fair, adequate, and reasonable for the Class Members.

19 2. The Settlement Is Reasonable Considering the Strengths 20 and Weaknesses of Plaintiff's Case.

21 "An important consideration in judging the reasonableness of a settlement is 22 the strength of the plaintiffs' case on the merits balanced against the amount offered 23 in the settlement." Nat'l Rural Telecom. Coop., 221 F.R.D. 523, 525-26 (C.D. Cal.
24 2004) (quoting 5 Moore Federal Practice, § 23.85[2][b] (Matthew Bender 3d. ed.).
25 When assessing the strength of a plaintiff's case and his probability of success, "the 26 district court's determination is nothing more than an amalgam of delicate balancing, gross approximations, and rough justice.” Officers for Justice v. Civil Serv. Comm’n, 688 F.2d 615, 625 (9th Cir. 1982) (internal quotation omitted).

The first significant hurdle Plaintiff would face in this case is establishing standing to pursue his claims. In Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins, 136 S. Ct. 1540 (2016), the Supreme Court reaffirmed that “Article III standing requires a concrete injury even in the context of a statutory violation,” and therefore “[plaintiff] could not, for example, allege a bare procedural violation, divorced from any concrete harm, and satisfy the injury-in-fact requirement of Article III.” Spokeo, 136 S.Ct. at 1549 (citing Summers v. Earth Island Inst., 555 U.S. 488, 496 (2009)). The Court further clarified that even though the FCRA is intended is to protect against inaccurate credit reporting, “[a] violation of one of the FCRA’s procedural requirements may result in no harm.” Id. at 1550.

Although the breadth of Spokeo will continue to be debated there is no question that Plaintiff is, at a minimum, at some risk of having his case dismissed at the pleading stage. See, e.g., Fisher v Enter. Holdings, Inc., et al., No. 4:15CV00372 AGF, 2016 WL 4665899, at *4 (E.D. Mo. Sept. 7, 2016) (“[A]l Plaintiff alleges is that the format and conspicuousness of a disclosure did not comply with [FCRA]. The Court believes that under these circumstances, the statutory violation alleged by Plaintiff does not establish her standing to bring this action.”).

In addition, although there is no dispute that D.A. Davidson used forms that included both the disclosure form and a release of liability on one document, the case law is still unsettled when it comes to finding willfulness in a defendant’s actions in these circumstances. In Safeco Ins. Co. of Am. v. Burr, 551 U.S. 47, 57-59 (2007), the United States Supreme Court explained that “willful” applies not

3 only to “knowingly” violating the FCRA, but also to actions that constitute a 4 “reckless disregard of statutory duty.” See also Willes v State Farm Fire & Cas.
5 Co., 512 F.3d 565, 566 (9th Cir. 2008) (applying the “reckless disregard” standard).
6 Although Safeco clarified that a plaintiff need not establish that defendant
7 “knowingly and intentionally” committed the violations, “reasonable construction,” 8 or even “careless construction,” were left open as possible defenses, at least as 9 interpreted by circuits outside the Ninth. See, e.g., Shlahtichman v. 1-800 Contacts,
10 Inc., 615 F.3d 794, 803-804 (7th Cir. 2010) (holding that even if defendant did 11 violate the statute it did not do so recklessly or knowingly); Long v. Tommy Hilfiger
12 U.S.A., 671 F.3d 371 (3d Cir. 2012) (holding that defendant’s reading of the statute 13 was “careless interpretation” and therefore not a “willful” violation).

14 Defendant’s ability to raise issues with standing and the possible defenses to 15 willfulness, coupled with Plaintiff’s burden to show that D.A. Davidson acted with 16 “reckless disregard of statutory duty,” create potential challenges for Plaintiff to 17 prove ultimate liability. Thus, settlement is the favored outcome. See In re Toys ‘R’
18 Us-Del., Inc. FACTA Litig., 295 F.R.D. 438, 451 (C.D. Cal. 2014) (order granting 19 plaintiffs’ motion for final approval of class action settlement and granting motion 20 for incentive awards) (finding that the “strength of plaintiff’s case” factor “weighs 21 in favor of settlement” where “willfulness” under FCRA is a triable issue).

22 Another legal issue for Plaintiff in this case is that California district courts
23 have dismissed similar claims brought by FCRA plaintiffs. See Peikoff v.
24 Paramount Pictures Corp., No. 15-cv-00068-VC, Dkt. No. 17 (Order Granting 25 Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss [Dkt. No. 13]), *2 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 25, 2015)
26 (finding that inclusion of a liability waiver provision in an FCRA disclosure did not 27 equate to reckless disregard and dismissing claim); Syed v. M-I LLC, No. 1:14-742-

3 WBS, 2014 WL 5426862, *4 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 22, 2014) (memorandum and order re:
4 motion to dismiss) (same). These courts rejected that facial violations alone could 5 merit liability under the FCRA, holding that a defendant cannot be found to have 6 plausibly acted in reckless disregard of its statutory duty “even if inclusion of the 7 [waiver] in [defendant’s] disclosure form did not comply with a strict reading of 15
8 U.S.C. §1681b(b)(2)’s requirement that the document consists solely of the 9 disclosure and authorization.” Peikoff, at *2; see also Syed, at *4 (finding that 10 defendant’s understanding of the FCRA when it included a waiver on its disclosure 11 form was “not objectively unreasonable”). Were this Court to accept the Northern 12 and Eastern District Courts’ interpretation of willfulness, Plaintiff and the potential 13 class could face dismissal.

14 In light of the challenges Plaintiff faces moving forward, settlement is the 15 best and most reasonable outcome.

16 3. Given the Risks of Proceeding in Litigation, Including the Risk of 17 Decertification, Settlement is the Most Favorable Outcome.

18 Though factually straightforward, there is great uncertainty in the legal 19 landscape that could bar certification, or overturn it. Regardless of the applicability 20 of Spokeo, even if Plaintiff were to prevail in certifying his claims, the court could 21 decide that Plaintiff did not face enough of an “actual injury” to prevail. In re Toys
22 ‘R’ Us FACTA Litig., 295 F.R.D. at 451 (“[P]laintiffs faced a substantial risk of 23 incurring the expense of a trial without any recovery, as no one in the class alleged 24 actual damages.”) As the Peikoff and Syed cases demonstrate, claims of technical 25 violations like Plaintiff’s face judicial resistance in some courts and end up being 26 dismissed. See supra III(A)(2).

Defendant likewise risks incurring great expenses if Plaintiff were to prevail. This type of “all-or-nothing prospect weighs in favor of approval.” In re Toys ‘R’ Us-Del., Inc. FACTA Litig., 295 F.R.D. at 452. Even assuming Plaintiff were to succeed in certifying the class, however, the “risk that a class action may be decertified at any time generally weighs in favor of settlement.” Lane v. Facebook, Inc., No. 08-3845-RS, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24762, *4 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 17, 2010) (citing Rodriguez v. West Publishing Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 966 (9th Cir. 2009)), aff’d, 696 F.3d 811,826 (9th Cir. 2012).

When a Court considers the risks of litigation, it may look to “the vagaries of litigation of immediate recovery by way of compromise to the mere possibility of relief, after protracted and expensive litigation.” Vasquez v. Coast Valley Roofing, Inc., 266 F.R.D. 482, 489 (E.D. Cal. 2010) (internal quotations omitted). Here, the Settlement delivers prompt and assured recovery for all Settlement Class Members and avoids the risks and expenses of years’ long litigation, including potential interlocutory appeals and an appeal after a trial. This factor supports approving the Settlement. See In re Portal Software Inc. Sec. Litig., No. C-03-5138 VRW, 2007 WL 4171201, *3 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 26, 2007) (order) (recognizing that the inherent risks of trial and appeal support settlement).

4. The Settlement Amount Supports Approval.

The Ninth Circuit instructs that “[t]he proposed settlement is not to be judged against a hypothetical or speculative measure of what might have been achieved by the negotiators.” Officers for Justice, 688 F.2d at 625. Rather, “the very essence of a settlement is compromise.” Id. at 624. Thus, “[t]he fact that a proposed settlement may only amount to a fraction of the potential recovery does not, in and of itself, mean that the proposed settlement is grossly inadequate and should be

3 disapproved.” Linney v. Cellular Alaska P’ship, 151 F.3d 1234, 1242 (9th Cir.
4 1998) (quoting City of Detroit v. Grinnell Corp., 495 F.2d 448, 455 & n. 2 (2nd Cir.
5 1974)).

6 Plaintiff’s best possible outcome would be for a jury to determine that D.A.
7 Davidson acted willfully when it failed to comply with state and federal laws. With 8 that determination, he and Class Members could be awarded between $100 and 9 $1,000 for each violation. See 15 U.S.C. § 1681n(1)(A). Additionally, if the Court
10 did not find that Plaintiff’s CCRAA and claim was preempted by FCRA as a 11 matter of law, Plaintiff and Class Members could be awarded up to any amount the 12 Court might allow. See Cal. Civ. Code § 1785.31. Likewise, if the Court did not 13 find the ICRAA claim preempted, Plaintiff could be awarded actual or statutory 14 damages of $10,000 (whichever is greater). See Cal. Civ. Code § 1785.50(a)(1)- 15 (2).

16 Although the FCRA provides statutory damages of not less than $100 and not 17 more than $1,000 for a willful violation (15 U.S.C. §1781n(a)(1)(A)), for those 18 class members who could not prove an actual injury, “it is unlikely that the class 19 members would receive maximum statutory damages for the conduct at issue.”
20 Torres v. Pet Extreme, No. 1:13-CV-01778-LJO, 2015 WL 224752, at *6 (E.D.
21 Cal. Jan. 15, 2015), amended, No. 1:13-CV-01778-LJO, 2015 WL 648241 (E.D.
22 Cal. Feb. 5, 2015). The proposed recovery for Settlement Class Members, 23 consisting of $145,000 in statutory damages is substantial. Although Class
24 Members may recover a similar amount if Plaintiff prevails at trial, they may do so
25 now without the risk of further litigation. See In re Toys ‘R’ Us-Del., Inc. FACTA
26 Litig., 295 F.R.D. at 454 (finding that 5% to 30% of the potential $100 recovery 27 under the FCRA is fair and adequate); see also, In re Mego Financial Corp. Sec.

3 Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 459 (9th Cir. 2000) (finding a settlement that paid plaintiffs
4 one-sixth of the potential recovery to be fair and adequate). Moreover, D.A.
5 Davidson also likely will argue that the $10,000 maximum damages available under 6 Cal. Civ. Code § 1785.50(a)(1)-(2) does not apply in a class case, which could 7 eviscerate the largest portion of possible damages available to the Class Members.
8 See Cal. Civ. Code § 1785.50(a)(1)-(2). Thus, the substantial risks to Plaintiff in 9 pursuing this to trial and appeal necessitates a discount on the settlement recovery.

10 The Court should approve the proposed settlement because the estimated
11 recovery to Class Members is approximately $45 each, just under half of the $100
12 minimum statutory damage award provided by the FCRA's willfulness provision
13 (15 U.S.C. § 1681n(a)(1)(A)), and therefore it is superior to other settlements
14 approved by California district courts involving similar claims. See, e.g., Torres, 15 2015 WL 224752, at **6-7 (awarding gift cards of up to $45 depending on the 16 claims rate); See In re Toys 'R' Us-Del., Inc. FACTA Litig., 295 F.R.D. at 453
17 (offering vouchers ranging from $5 to $30). In short, "[g]iven the likelihood that 18 plaintiff[] would have been unable to prove actual damages and the risk that [he]
19 would have been unable to prove willfulness and recover any damages at all, [...]
20 the amount of settlement weighs in favor of settlement." In re Toys 'R' Us-Del.,
21 Inc. FACTA Litig., 295 F.R.D. at 454.

22 5. The Settlement Was Finalized After Sufficient 23 Investigation.

24 A settlement negotiated at an earlier stage in litigation like this one can be 25 approved if a sufficient investigation has been conducted. See Eisen v. Porsche
26 Cars N. Am., Inc., No. 2:11-CV-09405-CAS, 2014 WL 439006, at *4 (C.D. Cal.
27 Jan. 30, 2014), appeal dismissed (Sept. 22, 2014) (finding that despite "discovery

3 [being] limited because the parties decided to pursue settlement discussions early 4 on,” counsel had “ample information and opportunity to assess the strengths and 5 weaknesses of their claims”).

6 Based on the discovery that Plaintiff’s counsel reviewed, and on their 7 independent investigation and evaluation and on the fact that the merits of this case
8 turn largely on unsettled legal issues, and not factual disputes, Plaintiff’s counsel 9 believes the terms set forth in the Settlement Agreement are fair, reasonable, and 10 adequate, and in the best interest of the Settlement Class in light of all known facts
11 and circumstances. (Dkt. 29, ¶¶ 8-13). The risk of significant delay and uncertainty 12 associated with litigation of this type, as well as the various defenses asserted by 13 D.A. Davidson, warrant settlement, even at this earlier stage.

14 6. Experienced Counsel’s Opinions Should Be Afforded
15 Substantial Consideration.

16 Because “parties represented by competent counsel are better positioned than 17 courts to produce a settlement that fairly reflects each party’s expected outcome in 18 the litigation,” the Court should give considerable weight to the parties’ settlement.
19 In re Pac. Enters. Sec. Litig., 47 F.3d 373, 378 (9th Cir. 1995). Here, experienced 20 counsel had their respective clients approve this settlement after a thorough review
21 of relevant documents and information, as well as a rigorous analysis of the parties’
22 legal claims and defenses. The expectations of all parties are embodied by the 23 Settlement, which, as set forth above, is non-collusive, being the product of arms’-
24 length negotiations and finalized with the assistance of an experienced mediator,
25 with certain terms re-negotiated after review by this Court.

26 Plaintiff is represented by experienced class action counsel possessing 27 significant experience in class action matters. (See Dkt. 29, ¶¶ 9-13.) Likewise,

3 D.A. Davidson’s counsel, Littler Mendelson, is one of the preeminent employment
4 litigation firms in the nation. Thus, the parties’ recommendation to approve this 5 Settlement should “be given great weight.” Eisen v. Porsche, 2014 WL 439006, at 6 *5 (giving credit to counsels’ experience and views of and a mediator’s 7 involvement in approving a settlement).

8 Based on the satisfaction of the relevant factors (supra III(A)(1)), the Court
9 should find the proposed Settlement to be fair and adequate.

10 7. Class Members Have Responded Favorably to the 11 Settlement

12 In evaluating whether to grant final approval of a settlement, a court may 13 “gauge the reaction of other class members” by evaluating “the number of requests 14 for exclusion, as well as the objections submitted.” In re Toys ‘R’ Us-Del., Inc.
15 FACTA Litig., 295 F.R.D. 438, 455 (C.D. Cal. 2014). To date, of the 1,480 notices 16 mailed out, none have filed an objection and only seven (less than 0.5%) have 17 opted out. (Verdekal Decl. ¶10.) These small numbers demonstrate that the vast 18 majority of Class Members support the settlement. When, like this one, “the 19 overwhelming majority of the class willingly approved the offer and stayed in the 20 class,” this creates some “objective positive commentary as to its fairness.” Hanlon,
21 150 F.3d at 1027. See also Nat’l Rural Tele. Coop. v. DIRECTV, Inc., 221 F.R.D.
22 523, 529 (C.D. Cal. 2004) (“[T]he absence of a large number of objections to a 23 proposed class action settlement raises a strong presumption that the terms of a 24 proposed class settlement action are favorable to the class members.”); Chun-Hoon
25 v. McKee Foods Corp., 716 F. Supp. 2d 848, 852 (N.D. Cal. 2010) (“[T]he absence
26 of a negative reaction [] strongly supports settlement. A total of zero objections and 27 sixteen opt-outs (comprising 4.86% of the class) were made from the class of [329]

3 members.”). “The fact that the overwhelming majority of the class willingly
4 approved the offer and stayed in the class presents at least some objective positive
5 commentary as to its fairness.” Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1027 (9th
6 Cir. 1998).

7 Like the standard for opt-outs, a “lack of objection of the Class Members
8 favors approval of the Settlement.” In re Omnivision Tech., Inc., 559 F. Supp. 2d
9 1036, 1043, 1049 (N.D. Cal. 2007). Here, since less than 0.5 percent of the class 10 has opted out and no objections have been received, the lack of objection in this 11 case strongly favors approval of the settlement.

12 B. The Claims Administrator’s Costs Should Be Approved

13 The parties seek final approval of the settlement administration costs 14 incurred by KCC. KCC acted in accordance with the Settlement Agreement and 15 completed its duties. (See Verdekal Decl.). KCC’s estimated costs for 16 administering the settlement, including notice and distribution to over 1,400 class
17 members, is $17,700.<sup>3</sup> Accordingly, KCC’s reasonable costs should be given final 18 approval along with the remainder of the settlement terms.

19
20 / / /

21
22 / / /

23
24 / / /

25
26
27 <sup>3</sup> The parties will submit an updated declaration from KCC with the final costs of administration following the close of the period for objections.

IV. CONCLUSION

The Parties have negotiated a fair and reasonable settlement on behalf of Class Members. Accordingly, the Parties respectfully request the Court to grant final approval of the Settlement Agreement.
